Declared City Is Smoke Screen of Newspaper and Allied Interests for the Purpose of Shelving King Bill and Controlling California

With 200 supporters about him, Governor Stephens issued a defl to the Los Angeles Times and the Southern Pacific railroad, at the City club last night, while the diners at a banquet of the Stephens club, given in his honor, cheered him to the echo.

Among the diners were twenty or more loyal Glendale supporters of the state executive, who heard Governor Stephens tell in plain terms the purpose of the opposition to his renomination.

He told of the forcing of state-wide corporations, notably the Southern Pacific, to pay a proportion of the burden of the cost of maintaining the state. He told of the opposition of the Times and the Southern Pacific as a result.

"They are not concerned in how much the plain citizen of the state pays," he declared, "they are only concerned in saving the share the King bill forces them to pay. Don't let them fool you."

He noted the amount that had been spent for education. "They call that extravagance," he said. "Don't let them fool you."

He told of the enormous burden the highways of the state were forced to carry, beyond the expec-tation of the builders. "Don't let time, Monday, by the Mary Jane them fool you," he reiterated.

The governor's address was preceded by the inspiring "California," sung by Mrs. Helen Beach Yaw Cannon, which was repeated under the tremendous encore. Mrs. Cannon was introduced to open the evening. She was followed by Mayor Cryer, who introduced Governor Stephens in part as follows:

'The great hullaballoo engaged in by the Los Angeles Times and those for whom it speaks has in it nothing honestly or genuinely meant for the help of the people at large, but, as all who really know can testify, is wholly for the benefit of certain selfish interests and maliciously pursued with the hope that by some bunko procedure the voters of California can be geles Times, to be managed by the Los Angeles Times for the benefit of the Los Angeles Times, the Southern Pacific railroad. other selfish interests. Don't let them fool wou!

Speaking of the present system of taxation, as provided in the recently enacted King tax bill, he described the bitter fight which had been made in the state capital and elsewhere, in an effort to defeat the measure.

"Once again, contending for the right, fighting for justice for the common people, a victory over almost impossible odds was won," the governor said. "And the allied interests were made to keep their promises, made to pay their share, fair share only, of the taxes in California. Hence, then and now, the unremitting, everlasting, unwarranted howl of state extrava-

Governor Stephens then outlined some of the uses to which the state's money is now being puteducation, highways, state institutions and children-and compared the increased cost of running the state government with the increased cost of conducting any other business

The speaker also aimed a blow at the Better American Federation,

"The leaders of the so-called Better American Federation do not America; they embitter America. They do not better America, they batter America."

Special attention was called to the necessity of passing the Soldiers' bond issue, providing loan funds for the purchase of homes and farms by World war veterans as well as the importance of edu cating congress to a proper solution of the Japanese problem. In conclusion, Governor Stephens

Fight to Save Million Dollar Daily Loss in Embargoes

Two Hundred and Eighty Packing Houses Idle as Result of Strike

> Concrete results thus far, were The Union Pacific agreed to disarm guards in its San Bernardino division and its employes agreed to return to work.

An attempt to make a similar agreement at Las Vegas, Nev., and other points on the road, which will permit resumption of service, was in progress today.

The Southern Pacific announced that it was moving fruit shipments via its Sunset route through Los Angeles and El Paso, although it coul handle more than a part of the total traffic

The situation was further complicated by a decision of 400 railway employes at Tracy, Calif., during the night to join the strike. Tracy is the important junction on the Southern Pacific connecting the Northern California lines with those of Southern California and the San Joaquin valley.

Two hundred and eighty packing houses, which were at the height of their activity in handling the fruit crop when the strike came on, were idle today. Of these, 130 were idle because railroads could not move fruit to them. The others had losed down because of the general incertainty and danger of loss.

Fruit growers' associations were mobilizing fleets of motor trucks in an effort to handle as much of the crop as possible. They estimated that of the total of $50,000,000 worth of fruit now ripening, probably $12,500,000 worth could be saved by cold storage, canning, water shipments and like means. Growers meet tomorrow in San Francisco to discuss the situation with state officials.

FAITH OF LOCAL REALTORS ASSURES BRILLIANT FUTURE FOR GLENDALE AND DISTRICT

By JOHN H. GERRIE Civic Development Expert

The future of Glendale is in safe hands. Her realtors are men of vision, with the FAITH that moves mountains and builds empires. They possess the courage of their convictions and the energy to translate possibilities into certainties.

WHAT MORE can a community ask? What more can beautiful Glendale, surrounded by her scenic mountains, with her pure air filtering through valleys and canyons, with her network of boulevards reaching everywhere, and her people contented and ambitious,

Her future rests largely with her realtors, and her realtors are building along broad lines. THEIR FAITH IS SUBLIME. It assures a brilliant future for city and

This was never more apparent than at the Spanish dinner al frescoe of the Glendale realty board, beneath the sycamores and oaks of beautiful Verdugo Woodlands a few evenings ago. It was a splendid company of more than one hundred, including the mayor and city council, officers of the chamber of commerce, a few local business leaders and the ladies of most of the men present, that assembled as guests of the F. P. Newport company and W. L. Twining, manager of that company. And the keynote of the gathering was FAITH in the future of Glendale.

Every speaker dwelt upon the impending influx of new citizens into Southern California, the high esteem in which Glendale is regarded by all who have seen it, and upon the brilliant prospects of this city to attract and hold the cream of incoming home-seekers.

Charles B. Guthrie expressed the consensus of opinion when he said that Glendale "has only just begun to grow," and that the future of this city is "beyond the dreams of any of us here today."

Out of the picturesque dinner meeting came the definite urge to "BOOST, BOOST, BOOST."

It was particularly significant that all the realtors were in accord that the boosting should include all Southern California as well as Glendale and all sections of Glendale, even if the booster be personally interested in only one section of the city. Tribute was paid lavishly to Verdugo woodlands as the beauty spot of a beautiful community and the thought was expressed that it would be to Glendale what the Wilshire district is to Los Angeles, a scenic setting for jewel homes.

Local realtors who had recently returned from vacation trips to other parts of the country asserted that wherever they went they found home-seekers headed toward Southern California and most of them included Glendale in their itineraries of inspection. One speaker relates that the literature of the local chamber of commerce had made more favorable impressions upon several prospective visitors he had questioned, than the literature from any other section of this state.

The essence of the epochal dinner meeting beneath the Verdugo trees was that almost any community achievement is possible for favored Glendale through COOPERATION, and that power was started on its way by the GETTING TOGETHER of the realtors of the fastest growing city in America.

HAVE YOU THE VERY BEST BABY?

Everybody's baby is the best baby—there are a host them in Glendale, Burbank, Eagle Rock, La Crescenta, Montrose, Tujunga and everywhere.

But, after the home opinion is passed, it is something to have the world back up that opinion. More than back it up with prize money as trophy for the little one whose charms are just the best ever. So The Glendale Daily Press announces the Best Baby Contest in this issue. There is a local cash prize, a local competition and a lot of second and third and

Beyond the local fame and local prize there is for the little fingers to grasp, $500 first and in addition $2500 in other prizes to be given by the Los Angeles Express in its All Southern California Elimination Con-one offered. The best baby may not be the handsomest, but it will be the brightest, the most even-tempered little one under the sun of Southern California. Of course if you have him, you will want to have him recognized early in his days.

So enter him in the contest today. The conditions are simple.

Surprising Delivery of Tones Revealed at Distant Range

Radio fans received a vocal treat last evening furnished by the talented pupils of Mrs. Virginia Freeman.

Mrs. Lura Burris, lyric soprano, demonstrated the excellent teaching she has received, in her ability to reach the highest of notes with practically no greater effort than the medium and lower notes required. She sang three selections, among which was "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny," by Bland.

Gretna Cordary, alto, rendered two selections, namely, "Who Knows," and "Sweetheart," with excellent annunciation.

Mrs. Virginia Freeman rendered a difficult selection entitled "Goodbye," with an ease which was surprising. Due to the compliments received and the excellent manner n which her voice carries, she has romised to return Friday night of this week and again entertain the many listeners with the clear, sweet harmony of her rich voice.

Mrs. Freeman stood about 12 (eet from the transmitter when singing, which shows the carrying quality of her voice. Helen Sayre and Lura Burris

Don't Be Fooled

"TOOL me once," says the proverb, "and it's shame on you. Fool me twice and it's shame on me."

Don't be fooled when it comes to spending your money. Patronize the merchants who have a reputation for fair dealing and honesty. Such motives must actuate the consistent advertiser. The man who invests real money in building a reputation for himself and his merchandise cannot afford to risk any of it by taking unfair advantage of his patrons.

The consistent advertiser pays money to tell you about his goods. He knows they are good—he backs them with his money because he believes they will satisfy. Only merchandise which is consistently good can be consistently advertised.

So advertising protects you against fraud and inferiority. It tells you what is new and good, making you a wise buyer. It saves you money by pointing out for your consideration only the best products and the best places to buy them.

Thrifty men and women read the advertisements. To them it is a plain everyday business proposition—a duty they owe to themselves and to their pocketbooks. Don't be fooled.

PARTY FEALTY

The fact that Senator Johnson did not caucus with republicans is, under the circumstances, worth considering. No man of commanding intelligence could be expected to follow blindly a course that appeared to him to be wrong. He would be at liberty to take issue with his fellow partisans if in so doing he had a logical defense for this action. He might even persuade the majority that they were in error. He could do all this without sacrifice of loyalty. But when the principles of the party electing him are clearly defined, when its purposes are openly clared, he has no right to "bore from within." de The privilege of righting against' the principles of his party, and seeking to thwart its purposes, belongs alone to those outside. If he lacks the inherent nobility to step outside voluntarily, the suggestion has to be made to him by the voters whom he has betrayed.

The ca bous affords opportunity to thresh out questions of policy. Therefore it is at caucus a dissenting partisan should present his views. Declining to present them there, but otherwise consorting with the Borahs and La Folletes of the hour, who have no party, he loses standing. For him to ask the support of republicans, when his conduct has stamped hira as opposed to important phases of the republican pilan, savors, let it be said mildly, of pre- DR. FRANKCRANE in the world why it should be.

Johnson states that he is a republican. He has fought bitterly to defeat the wishes of a republican administration backed by the full weight of the party. He will not do as republicans want him to do. He He will not do as republicans want him to do. He will not even caucus with them. On what, then, is his claim of being a republican based? Surely not on the fact that he takes orders from Hearst, as aspirant to office at the hands of democrats.

RECOGNIZE MEXICO

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The plain and immediate duty of the government of the United States is to recognize the present government of Mexico.

Our neighbor country to the south has had a long and bitter struggle toward order and decency. She has a government now which, as governments go, is very good.

Obregon has developed strength and fitness, and, considering the difficulties in his way, is entitled to every encouragement.

Perhaps you recall the method of advertising in the days of the ciscus. Full of extravagant claims and polysyllabic detail and all that.

Designed to attract the crowd. And it did the work.

The circus came and was gone.

It was a thing of only adday in the community. And then it went to some other place.

And repeated the same thing. And got away with, it, as the saying is. Because there was no permanence about the circus institution.

There are other users of extravagant language in advertising.

Equally ephemeral things. Oil stocks and things like that. The object being to get the money. Make a clean up. And get away with it.

And there are persons much like advertisements. Who are flamboyant. Full of extravagant claims. Putting up a big front. But they do not last. A fizz, a pop, a puff, a stream of sparks, and the rocket is up and down again.

But to get back to the thing we spoke of in the first place.

Just a little better. Whether it was a pair of socks or a flatiron or a kind of breakfast food or a can opener. Just a little better.

And the thing, whatever it was, was just a little better.

And people discovered that fact. That it was better made. It gave better service.

And justified the advertisement. So the man who made it or owned it kept on advertising.

Just a little better. Whether it was a beefsteak sauce or a lemon squeezer or a coffee pot. And the buying increased.

The impression got into the public mind and stuck there.

That the one thing was just a little better. And they got in the habit of calling for it. And business grew. Because the thing WAS just a little better.

That is the necessary thing after all. In sales, in work, in position, in art, or profession or whatever it is.

There is a lot of mediocrity. There is a lot of stuff that will pass. It will do. .

The thing is to have something JUST A LITTLE BETTER.

Your job, for instance. If you can do it just a little better. The thing you make. If you can make it just a little better. JAMES W. FOLEY.

SONGS OF THE POETS

The Moon-By Percy Bysshe Shelley (1792-1822)

And, like a dying lady lean and pale, Who totters forth, wrapped in a gauzy veil, Out of her chamber, led by the insane And feeble wanderings of her fading brain, The moon arose up in the murky east A white and shapeless mass.

Art thou pale for weariness Of climbing heaven and gazing on the earth, Wandering companionless

Among the stars that have a different birth, And ever changing, like a joyless eye That finds no object worth its constancy?

WHY WE WANT WATER FOR OUR BODIES

By DR. EDWIN E. SLOSSON

water is not only the most ahundant but the most even tempered of liquids. It thermal conservation of water, otherwise known as its of two degrees Fahrenheit, and it requires a delicate adjustment of the mechanism to maintain that temperature as we roam from the equator to the pole, or as the climates of these regions alternately roam over those of us who live in the north intemperate

It is water that keeps all parts of the body at the same temperature in all weathers by circulation, and then in hot weather like this reduces the temperature by evaporation. So as a man on a pleasure excursion has to put a bill into his pocket from time to time to compensate for the sum imperceptibly evaporated in small change, so we require frequent invoices of water to

For water is twice blessed. It gives a blessing as it comes and as it goes. And the latter is the greater, though we are not, so grateful for it. We appreciate the coolness of a glass of ice water, but it does us 15 times as much good it escapes afterward as through a million pores. A cup of hot tea, also may cool its off, for it takes away in evaporation from the skin 50 times as much heat as it brought to us.

Water is really what is wanted, although we add various flavors, call it by various names, and charge various prices for it. And it does not matter much what its initial temperature is, it will serve its purpose just the same. The only important thing is to get enough of it at all times, before meals, after meals, between meals and at meals. One can hardly get too much of it, but one usually gets too little.

The regulation of the strength of the various fluids of the body is as nicely adkeep up with the increasing temperature. But both are originally dipped.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

A paper that occasionally reaches this desk mentions the case of two men whose sentences to prison have been confirmed. It says they were condemned "under the vague statute which makes any citizen who entertains independent views on political government liable to incarceration."

The trouble with the averment quoted is that it is not true. There is no such "vague statute." There is no restriction on independent views, A man has full right to an opinion concerning political government; undenied and undeniable right to the expression of it. Were this not so, not only would the editors of the paper quoted be in jail, but the editors of all papers above the innocuous grade of the Sunday School Advocate, would be bearing them company.

In every line and between lines in the paper under consideration, is expressed or implied a hostile contempt for government. When a man preaches destruction of organized society through violence; when he seeks to undernine the foundations on which the government of the United States rests, he is going far beyond the point of expressing an opinion. He assumes exactly the attitude of the anarchist who manifests hatred not through words, but with torch and bomb. He becomes accessory before the fact to the crimes of murder and arson. He poisons the mind that is just perceptive enough to cherish hatred, and not intelligent enough to curb the impulse towards evil, when stimulated by the ranting of the agitator.

Freedom of speech is not withheld. Nevertheless the use of such sentences as "Your money or your life" is not sustained by anything to be found in the constitution.

How singular that the one who would destroy the constitution so readily seeks protection within the shelter of the document he despises.

The diary of a young woman who had been the victim of wanton and particularly heinous murder is being published. In ordinary circumstances this would have been unwarrantable. As the facts are, it was fully justifiable. There appeared to be evidence that part of the scheme of the defense would be an attempt to blacken the character of the one so cruelly slain. The diary reveals the type of character that the tongue of slander cannot blacken.

Arnold Bennett is quoted as having said of woman: "She is charming and interesting, but good for nothing. She is fascinating as a spectacle—that is all." It is pleasing to give Bennett the benefit of the doubt, and thus to be able to believe that no man capable of writing such able books, could be so unspeakable an ass as this sentiment would indicate.

If he holds the opinion ascribed to him, at least he should have the discretion to keep his tongue in his teeth.

There is considerable discussion as to the amount of bail that should be required of a man accused of crime. Certainly in cases where the guilt of the accused is known (despite the presumption of innocence) the bail should be high enough to insure his presence at

A more practical discussion would be as to the value of a bond for $10,000 signed by a professional bondsman whose property, if he has any, is in his wife's name.

The trial of thirty-seven men charged with participation in mob violence is now in progress and will be watched with peculiar interest. The defendants are accused of having invaded a home, assaulted the inmates, arrested men without warrant, and subjected women to indignity. One of the mob was killed on the spot, and the rest pretty well scared.

Interest is accentuated by the common belief that the defendants belong to the ku klux klan, and that the principles of that order are at bar, and its future in this state at stake.

ON JESUS

First of Studies Is Given to Presbyterian Men's Bible Class

Keith L. Brooks' message to the men at the Presbyterian Men's Bible class in the city hall Sunday morning, "Jesus the Lamb of God." He said in part:

"In the first half of the first chapter of John's Gospel, we have seen Christ as the son of God; in the last half He is presented as 'the Lamb of God.' John, seeing Jesus approaching, said, 'Behold the Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world.' How audacious these words might have sounded to the first hearers. Here is a young Galilean carpenter who is declared to be of world-wide and infinite significance.

"'Lamb of God' is the first public designation of the Savior. It throws the prominence on one aspect of His work, the truth which we all need most-Christ as our sin-bearer. The greatest emphasis of the New Testament is upon the efficacy of His sacrifice for the re mission of sins, not upon His ethical teachings of His example.

"There is no doubt as to what was in John's mind as he presented Christ as the Lamb of God. Isaiah's prophecy in the fifty-third chapter had foretold that in His first advent He would be the holy one wounded for the transgressions of His people. Some of our modernists, who have very refined tastes, would have us think that the title "Lamb" simply has to do with Christ's meek and gentle ways, as if it was a description of His disposition. But He was something far more than a meek man and a lovely pattern for human conduct-He was the atoning Savior of the world, giving His life a ransom on Calvary's cross.

"The designation 'Lamb' to these Jews who were right then on their way to the Passover celebration is highly instructive. The Paschal lamb had been appointed in Old Testament times as a means of deliverance from inevitable descruction that was pronounced upon the first-born of Egypt. The Lamb of Gcd is our deliverance from a bondage more fearful than that of Egypt. 'Christ, our Passover, is sacrificed for us' (1 Cor. 5:7). Let us turn to Exodus 12 and get the significance of these things. "Each household of Israel was to pick a lamb without blemish. This speaks of the sinless Christ, who under the most hostile scrutiny was found perfect. (1 Pet. 1:18-20.) On the night before the Passover, the lamb was to be killed. The continued life of the lamb would not save them. Its death was a necessity, even as Christ must be lifted up on the cross to bear the penalty of our sins (John 3:14-15). The blood of the lamb was to be struck high up upon the door posts, and this would be the sign to the destroyer that death had entered that ome in the person of a substitute, and therefore could not come to them. Death has taken place at Calvary for all who will receive Christ. But member, the blood has to be applied or it is of no effect. It is not enough that the blood of the Lamb of God was shed; His atoning work must be received by faith. The hyssop with which the blood was struck upon the door post, is a of the faith by which we apply promises of Christ to ourselves. Mark that the blood must be strick on the upper door post, not the threshold. The blood of Christ is not to be trampled under the of men (Heb. 10:29). The mark of the Christian life is to be evident to

There may be a back way to well, but there is none to heaven. "The meat of the Passover lamb was then to be roasted with fire and in that night, while death was reigning in the world about them, the Israelites were to feast upon the roasted lamb, together with un-leavened bread and bitter herbs. So Christ is not only to be looked upon but to be fed upon, after His atoning work has been received. I call attention to the specific prohibition of the ninth verse: 'Eat not of it raw.' The fire speaks of the fires safety. We are safe today only God's terms. We must permit God to say how we shall be saved. He has told us in His Word. We cannot dictate some other plan to Him. The Israelites might have taker many other seemingly wise measures on the Passover night, to keep off the destruction. They might have thought God's plan foolish Nevertheless without the shed blood of the lamb, they would have The cross of Jesus is our only protection. Are you behind the blood-marked door? Stranded in Utah by Rail Walkout of Engineers

One party enroute to Glendale is known to be stranded in Utah because of the walkout of Union Pacific trainmen. Mrs. H. B. Ellis, of the Glendale postoffice force, is anxiously awaiting word from her daughter, Mrs. Mary Werden, who with her two babies is on her way to this city to visit her mother.

Mrs. Ellis received word resterday that the train on which her daughter was traveling to California, had stopped at Milford, Utah. She later received a telegram from her daughter saying that the train had returned to Salt Lake when the walkout of trainmen took place, Werden said that she and the children were all right but the heat in Salt Lake is intense. She expects to arrive in Los Angeles on a relief train within a few days.
